My name is Lauren Mazzei, owner of the Fashion & Lifestyle blog Auburn Robes. While working full-time in IT, I decided I needed a little space to express myself artistically. Since then, Auburn Robes has developed into an outlet for me to explore and document fashion trends, new places & spaces, and even some blogging tips focused around my technology background. I love promoting and helping to develop other brands, along with my unique personal brand at the same time! A little about me... besides blogging, I love to brunch, box, and be with friends. As far as my style goes, I love pairing feminine pieces with trendier, edgy pieces. I would love to work with you!
